

EASY PICKING JUST THE COLORS YOU WANT

This envelope contains a transparency of a house and barn. With it you can quickly see just how any combination of colors will look on the buildings. To show how a white house and a red barn will look—take a piece of white paper, place it under the house transparency and put the red chip No. 677 under the barn. This shows immediately how the white and red combination will look.

Try this combination. Turn to cream house paint color No. 623 and Oxford yellow No. 678 for the barn. This makes a very attractive combination of colors.

By trying all the different combinations of colors attached to the transparency, you will be able to pick out colors you like best and be sure they will make a pleasing combination without any guesswork.
